Descrizione

The Agriturismo Ripaiani is an old cottage in which, in ancient times, Neri's family (that everyone called with the name of the place: Ripaiani) lodged the people who came here to spend their holidays. Near the Agriturismo, in fact, there is a river which has ferruginous springs that are considered salutary for the body. We have called our Agriturismo 'Ripaiani' because we love tradition. This cottage is now fully renovated and furnished paying attention to the details with the intention to make your guests savouring a warm and friendly atmosphere.

Nestled in one of the quiet green Umbrian hills, the Agriturismo gives, to who chooses it, a memorable stay in its four flats: La Cantina (The Wine Vault), Il Focolare (The Hearth), Il Granaio (The Barn) and I Mandorli (The Almond Trees). La Cantina, providing accommodation for two people, is composed by a double bedroom, a bathroom and a living room with a fireplace and a cooking area. This flat is accessible also for disabled.

Il Focolare, providing accommodation for three people, is composed by a bedroom with one double and one single beds, a bathroom and a living room with a fireplace and a cooking area.

Il Granaio, providing accommodation for four people, is composed by two double bedrooms, two bathrooms, a living room with a fireplace and a kitchen.

I Mandorli, providing accommodation for four people, overlooks the swimming pool and is composed by
